NEW PARK SITE FOR TERRE TOWN APPEARS FIGMENT

STAR 8-13-69

The Terre Haute Board of Park Commissioners met with representatives of the Terre Town area Tuesday night at City Hall and discussed establishment of a city park in the Terre Town area.

Sid Levin, park board president, said the meeting was called in good faith, but on rumors that unknown persons in the Terre Town area wished to contribute ground for a park. It was established the reports were untrue.

Levin told Councilman Eugene Chernay and representatives of a Terre Town civic organization to see what property would be available for a park in the area, find out costs, and report back to the park board.

He said funds made available from the estate of the late Julius Brittlebank, which were left to the city two years ago are under control of the Board of Public Works and Safety, and not controlled by the park board.

Councilman Kenneth Mier, who attended the meeting, said, "When you have $89,000 in the bank, don't come to the council and ask for funds for a park." He added, "I won't vote for putting money on a downtown mall, either, as has been suggested."
